Message from the Headteacher

Dear Parents and Carers,

By the end of today well over 250 pupils and Sixth Form students will have represented the school at sport since Monday. A huge number of fixtures have taken place in football, rugby, table tennis, hockey and netball.

In addition 30 pupils have taken part in the UKMT Intermediate Maths challenge, Sixth Form students have taken part in a Classics trip to Oxford and preparations continue for Bands Night next Thursday and the school production of West Side Story next term.

Year 11 and 13 revision sessions are also being really well attended in preparation for the second round of mock exams next term and I am impressed by the level of commitment being shown.

I am delighted to see so many taking part in the opportunities available and, of course, I am grateful for the commitment of our staff to make these events possible. We ask all pupils to embrace our Core Values and over the last week aspiration and independence, in particular, have been seen in abundance.

In other news, today we had a visit from author A.F. Steadman. She spoke to all of Year 7 and pupils invited from St Philip's Primary School and Oldfield Park Primary School. This was part the launch of her Skandar books and the pupils enjoyed the talk and taking part in activities this morning.

I must end my newsletter piece this week with some sad news, however. Paul Watts, our former Deputy Headteacher, who left Beechen Cliff in 2019 after nearly 20 years at the school, tragically passed away recently. Many members of our school community worked with Paul and our thoughts are with his family at this difficult time. Former Headteacher, Andrew Davies, has written a tribute to Paul, which you can read later in our newsletter.

Driving pupils to school and pupil drop offs

Wherever possible we encourage pupils to walk to school or to use public transport.

We understand that on some occasions parents need to drive their children to school. If this is the case we would be grateful if pupils could be dropped off on Bear Flat (Majestic Wine has agreed for the space outside their store being used) to reduce traffic and to improve safety on the Avenues.

If parents need to drive up the Avenues we would request the following:

- Please respect the unofficial one way system; Up Shakespeare Avenue and down Kipling Avenue.
- Please keep to the 20mph speed limit.
- Please use the marked parking bays rather than stopping /parking on Zig zag yellow lines outside the school gate.

Thank you for your support to reduce traffic and improve safety in the local area for the benefit of our pupils and the local community.

Year 9 Options Choices

Over the last couple of terms, Year 9 pupils have been thinking about which subjects they will be choosing to study at Key Stage 4. As well as the taster sessions they received during the Ignite Day in November, assemblies and the parents information evening, over the last two weeks they have been taking part in one-to-one interviews with members of the Senior Leadership Team to discuss their options and give them an opportunity to ask any questions they may have. I have been really impressed by the boys' organisation and independence. They have clearly given careful consideration to this important choice. I'd like to say thank you for the support that you have provided over recent weeks.

If your son has not yet submitted his options, the deadline is Monday 5th February. I hope the links below will help with making his choices.

GCSE Options Booklet

Options Subject Videos

Please submit the choices using this link: GCSE Options Form

If you have any questions, please email options24@beechencliff.org.uk and we will get back to you. Final allocation of subjects will be confirmed in June.

LIBRARY NEWS

There has been a lot of reading going on this week with more new borrowers coming to the library to complete their homework (borrow a book) and set reading targets. It is great to see that over 60% of borrowers have read at least a chapter of their library book and that a quarter of those who haven't read the book yet was because they were finishing something else. Ten percent of the boys who hadn't read their book said they hadn't got time to read, so please encourage them to find ten minutes a day for reading - it will make such a difference to so many aspects of their life. We were pleased to see that 65% of boys who completed the homework set a target of at least a chapter of reading a day and a whopping 75% said that they were going to read at bedtime, before they went to sleep. Sweet dreams!

- Before I get out of bed
- At break or lunchtime
- After school as part of my homework
- Just before I have screen time/
- Before I go to sleep

These are the five World Book Day books that all Y7, 8 and 9 pupils can choose between. Please make sure your son has filled in the World Book Day 3 Homework so they can pick the book they want.

How to help your son revise for GCSE English Language

Task type: Developing reading skills

Resources to support: Your son should have a bank of practice papers for both Language papers

How can you help?

Read the extracts together and discuss the ideas in the text

Ask your son to tell you about the methods the writer has chosen to convey their ideas

Read an article, speech, letter, essay or leaflet together and discuss the ideas in the text. Consider what the writer's opinion/perspective is and ask your son to tell you about how the writer uses language to present their ideas. Consider what the most impactful elements of these texts are.

Task type: Revising key terminology

Resources to support: Your son should have a list of key terminology for each language question

How can you help?

Quiz your son on this terminology

Task type: Developing writing skills

Resources to support: Your son should have a bank of practice papers for both Language papers

How can you help?

Read your son's writing

Ask your son to tell you about the methods he has chosen to present his ideas

Discuss what could make the writing more interesting/ more impactful e.g. could he develop the setting further, make the character seem more realistic by focusing on his emotional reactions; develop the background of the character so that we can see the reason for his actions; cut out a section that doesn't really add anything to the action of the story or character development

How to help your son revise for GCSE English Literature

Task type: Revision lectures

Resources to support: your son should have a login for Massolit.io which gives him access to revision lectures on each Literature text he has studied. <https://massolit.io/>

How can you help?

Watch these together and discuss: how are these ideas similar to/different to what he'd previously understood about the text(s)? Have him make notes as he watches to ensure he can come back to the key information later.

Task type: Quotation learning

Resources to support: your son should have a bank of key quotations for each text they study

How can you help?

Test your son using flashcards of quotations where they have to fill in the blanks or recall quotations linked to particular themes or images

Ask your son to tell you about why the particular quotation is important- what are the key words in the quotation, what are the implications of these words, what methods has the writer used and what does he think the writer is trying to communicate through these choices

Task type: Essay planning and writing

Resources to support: your son should have a bank of practice questions

How can you help?

Ask your son to talk you through the ideas in the text related to the question posed: how do these ideas change within the text; why do they change; what message is the writer conveying through these changes; how are they reflective of the time the writer is writing in/ the time the text was set in?

When your son has written or planned an essay, ask your son whether there's anything else he could add e.g. has he fully developed his arguments; has he used at least 3 quotations/references per paragraph and considered the importance of the language and methods in these quotations; has he considered why the writer has made these choices?

Lego Robotics success for Harry

Congratulations to Harry and his team on their success in the First Lego League (Lego Robotics) regional competition last week.

FLL is an international STEM competition where over 35,000 teams of students design, build and code a LEGO robot which must then reliably perform multiple tasks in a head-to-head competition with other teams. Simultaneously the team must also develop an innovative new technology product to present to judges in a Dragons' Den style presentation. As well as scoring the most points in the robot competition the team also highly impressed the judges with their prototype for an electronic safety device to assist deaf people whilst they are surfing.

Harry's team won the regional competition and will now go through to the National Finals in Harrogate in April.

What a fantastic achievement. Well done Harry!

We wish them all the best for the National Finals later in the year.

BEECHEN CLIFF THREE PEAKS CHALLENGE

FRIDAY 28TH JULY TO 1ST JULY

The Beechen Cliff Three Peaks Challenge is one of the many endurance challenges offered to students. It involves the ascent of the three highest mountains in Scotland, Wales and England, without undue stopping for rest or sustenance. The Challenge, taking place over a three and a half day period will include one days travel to the first mountain and half a day from the last mountain to home, driving 1200 miles, ascending over 3000 metres and walking a distance walked exceeding an Olympic marathon.

Whilst it is a challenge that will test the 'metal' of all participants, it is a group activity and team work is vital if the challenge is to be completed in the true spirit of adventure. Beechen Cliff still remains one of the few schools in the United Kingdom to undertake such an arduous challenge. This is possible as we have the expertise and experience in successfully organising this type of activity and we have a dedicated team willing literally to go the extra mile. This challenge is as always an awesome and unforgettable adventure.

If you are interested you will need to complete the online Consent / Medical form.

USE THIS LINK <https://forms.gle/L6f2pNHJA5ku8R6L8>

There is a maximum of 28 places available, so please complete the form as soon as you can. Further information and a kit list are available from Mr Brewer in Humanities. The total cost for the adventure is £395.

This challenge is only open to years 10, 11 and the sixth form.

Access to pay the £100 deposit via ParentPay will be given after the form has been completed. This will finally secure your place. The remaining £295 balance will need to be paid before Friday 24th May 2024 to enable us to book and secure all necessary accommodation before the event.

Wellbeing

We are absolutely thrilled to have Megan Thachil join the Solution Focused Team at Beechen.

Megan, a Final Year Social Work student from the University of Bath, is working with Tara Gretton in Bath, spanning three schools: Beechen Cliff, Hayesfield, and St Mark's.

Megan is undergoing training in the solution-focused approach, making her a solution-focused practitioner across all three schools.

This groundbreaking initiative has us incredibly excited to provide support and facilitate this unique opportunity. This is the first school based social work placement from Bath University Social Work Department.

Among Megan's initial activities is engaging groups of students in Gesa Doeringer's Solution Focused Mindsetter Game across the three schools. It's a large floor-based board game and we are the first school in the World to play it! We will share more about the game in the next few weeks!

Megan will also provide 1:1 mentoring to our students once after half term.

Megan is with us for three months and will also be supporting us to research the impact of the solution focused approach in schools!

Welcome Megan! ✨❤

Bristol Routes into STEM

Face-to-face Routes into STEM 2023/24

Routes into STEM is an experience that provides an amazing opportunity to help students understand the different routes to further STEM education and career pathways.

Who is it for?

Students in Year 9 and 10 who are interested in finding out more about STEM careers. Students should also be within one-hour of travel distance of locations.

What is involved?

- A three-day local experience that includes a day in a university and two days at STEM companies local to them
- Students will explore STEM careers, participate in interactive workshops, site tours and hear from young professionals

What are the outcomes?

- Gain first-hand information and experience hands on activities at STEM educational providers and companies to make informed decisions about their future
- Go on campus tours and get thinking about future studies in a mature and informed manner
- Speak with apprentices/graduates about their experiences
- Develop valuable skills such as presentation skills, team-building, and social skills, and see how they can be applied to their CV, Application Form or Personal Statement
- Become a Bronze Industrial Cadet

Paul Watts

The school community, both past and present, was shocked to learn of Paul's untimely loss at the age of fifty nine.

Paul was Head of Science and then Deputy Headmaster of Beechen Cliff, the latter role one he fulfilled with dexterity and skill for fourteen years. To many within Beechen Cliff he was a colleague and a friend, a role model for us all and a man who 'walked the talk' of education and did so much to enhance Beechen Cliff and the lives of the pupils within it.

Paul's role as Curriculum Deputy saw him build a strong team of Heads of Department, creating an energy and sense of belief in the role of each subject that the boys could all find something positive to take from their academic experience, even those who were a little more reluctant. He showed through his own classroom practice that he was an exceptional teacher and he always took a quiet pride in the fact that his Physics results were always the best in the school, something his pupils recognised and respected. His approach, 'old fashioned and rigorous' in his own words, always seemed to find favour with the boys and, despite his ability to be gently moved off subject by the mention of football tactics, he remained steadfast in his adherence to the high standards that brought such good outcomes.

His contribution to the wider life of the school is still seen in a number of areas. He had an exceptional eye for design and presentation of material and it was his drive that saw us move into the twenty-first century in terms of a website which worked for parents and which actually did the job of presenting a face to the world in a form which was then picked up and copied by others - 'imitation', as he said, a strong form of flattery. The uniform that the boys wear today was his design, despite my efforts to introduce a beautiful wool blazer with a nice binding. 'Can you imagine what it would look like after they've played football in that?' He was right, of course, as he was in so many areas of planning and implementation. He brought wit and (brutal) honesty to the proceedings in senior meetings, never allowing us to get carried away or to be too pleased with ourselves. A teacher who believed that the lesson he had just observed was bordering on brilliant would be told quite clearly that they were under an unfortunate delusion. Never unkind, always honest and always able to make those around him want to achieve the best possible for the boys. He understood all too well that everything we had was potentially fragile and could be easily damaged.

It was Paul who masterminded and drove the plans for projects which would become the new Music building, English building, Pavilion and the new Refectory. Interested in every detail, he made clear his vision, articulated in a way that all could embrace and then worked to deliver elements of the school which have been instrumental in giving the children a learning environment which would barely have been dreamed of by the previous generation of Beechen Cliff schoolboys.

He could often be found in his office poring over magazines that featured various coloured dots and sweeping arrows, making notes and tutting to himself.

I believed, for many years, that these were diagrams within an Institute of Physics publication. When I suggested as much he gave me a look which could curdle cream and made it clear that these were football training tactics and he was deciding which ones to employ 'with the boys' when the next session came along. Every Friday during the coldest part of the year he would gather with his band of enthusiastic coaches and deliver a programme to the ranks of Year 7 boys who would gather together. As with any proud Liverpudlian Everton supporter he delivered his plans and instructions more in hope than expectation of success, although the teams nurtured so carefully by him in the early years at the school did go on to achieve notable success.

Quiet but steadfast in his faith, Paul delivered a number of extraordinary and moving elements of the Easter assembly in the Sports Hall, speaking to thirteen hundred youngsters, who, had it been anyone else, would have been glancing at watches and planning their time of arrival home at the end of term. Paul's approach made them think; made all of us think, in fact. He could take the message of hope and redemption, formulated so long ago, and make it resonate with his audience. Never dogmatic, always open to debate and cheerful with it, his gentle influence guided the delivery of many, many assemblies I delivered, to be enjoyed or endured by young and captive audiences.

His devotion to and pride in his family was obvious to all who knew him well. He lit up when he spoke of them and it is clear that they provided the powerful foundations on which he was able to build his career and work. His loss is unfathomable and Beechen Cliff has lost someone very special. Roy Ludlow, my predecessor, told me at my interview that Paul was 'a good man'. He was so right and so very clearly delivering an understatement at the same time. He will be with us in so many ways in the months and years to come, such was his influence.

Our sincerest condolences and our respect for Paul as a school community go to his wife Jane and his children Maddie and Angus.

Our Individual Performance course offers personalised training sessions for all skill levels. Each session is tailored to the individual's specific goals and needs, whether they are looking to improve their technical skills or physical conditioning. From beginners starting out on their footballing path, to players who want to improve specific aspects of their game taking their performances to the next level.

GROUP SESSIONS GROUPS OF 4, 6 OR 8

Our small group sessions are fantastic for players who prefer to train with friends & team mates. Training with other players brings intensity and competition creating a match environment.

Sessions with: LEWIS DIXON
- FA Level 2 qualified & DBS checked
- Current Larkhall player & former Bath City Academy player

To book a session or for more information please contact Lewis on 07870993631 or email lewis@upandundersports.co.uk

COSTS per session	1-1 Coaching Session £25	4-1 Group Session £60
	2-1 Coaching Session £40	6-1 Group Session £60

Sessions will cover: basic passing, dribbling, control, shooting etc.
Progressing onto more advanced training: movement, positioning, fitness & tactics progressing the individual to their highest potential.
