

BEECHEN CLIFF WEEKLY NEWSLETTER

4th June 2026

Message from the Headteacher

Dear Parents and Carers

Exam season continues and it has been pleasing to have mostly positive feedback from GCSE and A Level students following their exams. They have worked really hard so far and I encourage them to keep this up for the final few weeks of exams. A well deserved rest is not too far away.

Year 7 and 8 pupils have finished their summer exams now and those in Years 9, 10 and 12 are underway too and it really does seem like we are racing to the end of the academic year.

This week the assemblies for Years 7, 9 and 10 have focussed on the Learning Cycle, which we use in lessons in school to help them further understand the stages of learning and review. This has fitted in well with both post exam reflections and revision and the aim is that with an increased understanding of how their learning takes place, even more progress will be made. Year 8 pupils will have this input next week

Today the Year 8 assembly was taken by older students who are part of the KES and Beechen Cliff CCF. The students talked about how the CCF works and what they have gained from participating. The presentation can be viewed here.

Year 8 parents and carers will be receiving a letter from our CCF liaison, Mr Davies, with more information about how to sign up to be considered to participate when in Year 9.

This week the cricket and tennis teams have battled the weather with fixtures against Millfield, Bristol Grammar School, Wellsway, Prior Park and Backwell.

Despite the interruptions there have been some excellent individual performances and all deserve a lot of credit.

The School was joined by the Deputy Mayor of Bath and representatives from the Sam Polledri Foundation and GWAAC. Attendees took part in a CPR and defibrillator training session by GWAAC's Defibrillator Officer Caroline Kivungi, so they know how to help someone in an emergency.

Water Safety

I hope you were all able to enjoy half term and to make the most of the glorious weather that we had. Whenever the weather is so hot, the temptation for young people to head to the water is much greater. Tragically, 15 people in the UK lost their lives by drowning last week alone, 13 of whom were teenagers and it seems a good time to remind everyone of how to do everything possible to keep safe. The Royal Life Saving Society has published the following advice, specifically for parents and teenagers

Drowning deaths among 13-17-year-olds have increased an alarming 67% between 2020-2022 and 2023-2025.

When you're not there, knowledge matters. Have the conversation.

Risky behaviours teenagers commonly take around open water - understand them so the conversation lands.

These are the situations worth talking about:

1. Peer-pressure activities

- Group settings often encourage risk-taking, especially around water.
- Teens overestimate their abilities and underestimate hazards.

2. Jumping or diving into unknown water

- Rivers, lakes, and canals can hide rocks, sudden drops, debris, or submerged objects such as shopping trolleys and thick weeds that can entangle limbs.
- Water may be shallower than expected or contain hazards that can cause serious injury and make it difficult to get out.
- This is a leading cause of spinal injuries and drowning.

3. "Tombstoning" from bridges, walls, or jetties

- Popular in warm weather, especially with groups.
- Cold water shock, unseen objects below the surface, and strong currents all increase the risk.

4. Swimming in cold or fast-moving water

- Warm weather doesn't mean warm water - open water stays dangerously cold.
- Cold water shock causes an involuntary gasp and loss of breathing control within seconds - even for strong swimmers.
- Even confident swimmers can quickly lose strength, control and coordination. Panic makes it worse.
- Many drowning incidents happen in late spring and summer when these risks are underestimated.
- Coastal waters bring additional risks such as tides and rip currents, which can quickly pull even strong swimmers away from shore.
- Open water is unpredictable - what you can't see, control, or feel immediately can put you at risk.

5. Drinking alcohol near or in water

- Impairs judgement, balance, and the body's ability to respond.
- Often linked with accidental slips, falls, and poor decision-making.

6. Using inflatables or makeshift rafts

- Inflatables can blow away or flip.
- Improvised rafts can collapse or trap limbs.

7. Running or messing around on slippery banks

- Risk of propeller injuries, being hit by a vessel, or becoming trapped under pontoons.

8. Swimming near boats or jumping from them

- Risk of propeller injuries, being hit by a vessel, or becoming trapped under pontoons.

9. Entering water to “rescue” friends

- Many teenage fatalities happen when a friend gets into difficulty, and others jump in.
- Panic and cold water shock can overwhelm even strong swimmers, making rescue extremely dangerous without training.

10. Exploring drains, culverts, weirs, or restricted areas

This activity is highly dangerous due to:

- Fast flows
- Sudden surges
- Low oxygen levels
- Entrapment hazards

A calm, quiet space to read and work

National Year of Reading 2026

There is so much support for getting teens reading available through the National Year of Reading website:

<https://goallin.org.uk/families-11-plus/>

For many young people, reading for pleasure drops off as they move into the secondary school years. Life gets busier, schoolwork becomes more demanding, and reading can start to feel like something they have to do, rather than something they choose. Rather than positioning reading as an extra, the National Year of Reading aims to meet young people where they are and show how reading can help them get more from the things they care about.

Because when reading reflects what young people care about – no matter the format – it's more likely to happen, and more likely to stick.

READING TESTS - Year 9 (Weeks 1 and 2) and Y10 (Weeks 3 and 4)

As part of the examination weeks, all students will take their annual reading test. Year 9 and Year 10 will complete their tests over the next few weeks in English or Reading lessons. This is to ensure that their reading skills are continuing to develop and helps us to identify any students that would benefit from reading interventions.

I will post information on Google Classroom with some general advice and some examples of the type of questions that will be on the test. You can't really revise for a reading test, but knowing what to expect can take some of the stress away! Remember - the best way to improve your reading skills is to read regularly.

If you have any questions about your son's reading please get in touch.

Keep Reading!

Extra Curricular Activities and Sporting Events

We are proud to offer an extensive range of sporting opportunities for our students, with teams, clubs, and fixtures available across a variety of sports and age groups. Participation in school sport is a key part of our community, and we expect all selected students to represent the school in fixtures as a priority over external club commitments. This ensures fairness, team cohesion, and a strong sense of school spirit.

We encourage parents to support this expectation and to stay informed about upcoming matches and events.

Cricket Festival

Our u14's enjoyed a fantastic cricket festival over half term. Hosted by Bradfield College the u14's played four games of cricket over three days, two longer format games and two T20's.

Results unfortunately didn't always go our way but that didn't matter because the boys got the chance to play lots of cricket, had a great time and made some new friends along the way in the beautiful weather that we were treated too.

CCF FIBUA Trip - May 22nd

In glorious sunshine on the last day of the Whitsun Term forty cadets from the CCF contingent were transported to the mysterious world of the deserted German village near Chitterne on Salisbury Plain. An environment in which old cars and 'knocked out' armoured vehicles sit forlornly around rubble-strewn streets make this a very exciting venue for cadets. Rather incongruously in the centre of the village a burger hut has been erected, catering for the needs of troops as they finish various exercises.

Built during the Cold War, the village was built to allow British soldiers to train in an environment which replicated the type of urban environment that would have been encountered if the ranks of soviet armour had swept into West Germany. Thankfully, of course, that scenario did not play out, but the 'village' has been re-modelled to be 'in' Serbia/Iraq/Afghanistan in more recent decades.

The cadets were to learn the rudiments of house clearance, removing an opposing force from buildings and securing the area around. We were in luck as all other units had left the area for the weekend, including a group from Sandhurst, training officer cadets in the same skills which our cadets were to learn. With the support from an expert in the field the cadets were taken through each element of the activity before being given the opportunity to try and successfully clear a large building in which an 'enemy' awaited, armed to the teeth and very happy to expend a few dozen rounds on the attackers.

Dealing with hazards such as tables and wardrobes cast across doorways, the attackers had to move from room to room, clearing opposition and communicating effectively to try and make sure they were not left exposed. Each of the cadets had a very exciting time, helmeted up, lugging the L98 rifle and sporting eye protection which made the face glow with the heat as they moved as a team past each obstacle. It was fairly tiring, hot work and the cadets (together with the staff) were fairly warm by the end of a long, successful day. The consensus was that it was an exceptional experience and one which all participants wanted to repeat as soon as possible. The Year 11 and Upper Sixth cadets were unable to attend due to the public examinations - no doubt they will be somewhat envious of the others on this occasion.

We are grateful to the army for allowing us access to the village and to Captain Jones for arranging the experience, wading uncomplainingly through the substantial paperwork and for encouraging the cadets through each activity. Next on the list of activities will be Exercise Warrior Cadet at the end of this month: a tactical exercise which will see teams of the most experienced cadets deal with a scenario which tests all their skills of leadership and resolve. A report on that experience will follow in due course.

The Wellbeing Team.

Dear Parents and Carers,

Welcome back after the half-term break. We hope everyone was able to enjoy some sunshine and find a little time to rest and restore.

As we move towards the end of the school year, with only seven weeks of term remaining, many children and young people will be beginning to think about transitions. These may include moving to a new year group, starting a new school, or, for some, leaving education altogether after many years in school.

Transitions and change can be significant experiences for children, young people and adults alike. They can bring excitement, uncertainty, anticipation and sometimes worry. As a wellbeing team, we would like to invite families to use a solution-focused lens when thinking about these changes.

Rather than focusing only on concerns about what lies ahead, it can be helpful to think about:

- What are you hoping for in this next chapter?
- What would tell you that things are going well?
- How have you coped with change in the past?
- What have you learnt from previous experiences?
- What will you be taking with you into this next stage?
- What would you like to continue doing because it has worked well for you?
- Is there anything you might choose to do differently?

The period before a transition can be a valuable time for reflection. Looking back can remind us of the challenges we have already overcome, the skills we have developed, and the people who have supported us along the way. These experiences become a source of confidence and knowledge that we can carry forward into whatever comes next.

We wish all our children, young people and families well as they prepare for the changes ahead.

Warm wishes,

The Wellbeing Team.

We Want to Hear from You!

Does your child (aged 9-12) experience behavioural or attentional difficulties?

We are looking for families with children who:

- Find it difficult to meet expectations for behaviour in a school environment, e.g., not following instructions or disrupting lessons
- Frequently experience school responses to behaviour, such as spending time out of class, being on a behaviour support plan, or being suspended or excluded.
- Often feel overwhelmed, frustrated or dysregulated at school
 - And live or attend school in Bath and North East Somerset, Swindon or Wiltshire

We would also like to hear from families whose children no longer attend school because of these difficulties.

You will complete a 90-minute interview, and your child a 30-minute interview (optional).

You will get £20 and your child £10

We want to find out what support is working well and what could be improved for these children

If you would like to take part, or you would like more information, please contact us:
